“ We worked together, he trained me as did so many others, especially is uncle's Reggie and Randy. His patience and low key way balanced out the people around him. He had a huge heart for the kids at work and was serious about raising them into young men. He was firm and fair. A very good listener, he would evaluate all that you said and give honest responses. He was so proud of Booboo that you knew he was a fan of how his son emulated him. He praised his wife, mother and uncles for their love of him and their patience with others. Truly missed and never forgotten.
